†The benchmark is a static custom blended index of 60% Russell 3000 Index and 40% Barclays Intermediate Government/Corporate Index. The Russell 3000 is a market-capitalization weighted index containing the 3000 largest companies in the U.S. The Barclays Int. Gov/Corporate Index is a broad measure of bonds with maturities of up to 10 years. The volatility of both indices may be materially different from that of the strategy depicted, and the holdings in the strategy may differ significantly from the securities that comprise these indices. Both indices are calculated on a total return basis with dividends reinvested in the Russell 3000 and are not assessed a management fee. The benchmark is calculated in Excel; weighted quarterly for quarterly performance and monthly for annual performance.
